INTRODUCTION

This bibliography is not the result of a systematic search for titles. Rather, it is a list of publications I have gathered and consulted over the years in the course of my own research. It is felt, however, that the present bibliography will be of interest to those involved in historic archaeology and artifact research in the Maritimes.

The bibliography consists mostly of books and articles on ceramics and glass. Included in these titles are a limited number of publications directed to collectors, for example Berkow (1973), Unitt and Unitt (1972; 1980). These books should be used only to obtain an idea of what complete specimens look like, and should not be utilized in the formulation of artifact histories and chronologies. Collection analyses, artifact histories and site reports are, by far, much better studies.

A limited number of books and articles on the different schools of thought in historical archaeology has been included in this bibliography. These titles will be valuable to researchers wishing to familiarize themselves with the different approaches in this discipline. Furthermore, I have listed site reports and research summaries that would enable researchers to gain an understanding of the excavations that have been undertaken in Canada. For the Maritimes, these titles can be supplemented by consulting "An Archaeological Bibliography of the Maritime Provinces: Works to 1984", by Christopher J. Turnbull and Stephen A. Davis, (The Council of Maritime Premiers, Reports in Archaeology No. 6), to be pubished in 1986.

Articles and books on the history of Acadia and New France, as well as on New and Old Worlds social and economic history have been listed. Finally, a number of articles on the formation of complex societies will also be found in the present bibliography.

There has always been a need for such a bibliography and it is hoped that this publication will fulfill this need, at least partially. Again, while this bibliography is not complete, it provides many essential titles for artifact research in the Maritimes.

INTRODUCTION

Cette bibliographie ne résulte pas d'un effort systématique pour collectionner des références. En fait, c'est une liste de publications que j'ai accumulées et lues au cours des années. Cependant, je crois que la bibliographie qui suit sera utile à ceux qui font des recherches archéologiques et étudient les artéfacts provenant de sites historiques dans les Maritimes.

Cette bibliographie comprends surtout des livres et articles sur la poterie et le verre. Parmis ceux-ci on retrouvera un nombre limité de publications écrites pour les collectionneurs, par exemple Berkow (1973), Unitt et Unitt (1972; 1980). Ces livres n'ont qu'une utilité limitée. On pourra s'en servir pour obtenir une idée de la forme d'objets complets, et non pas pour dater et produire une histoire des artéfacts. Les analyses de collections archéologiques, les histoires d'artéfacts basées sur les documents et les rapports de fouilles, sont meilleurs que les études pour les collectionneurs.

Un nombre limité de livres et d'articles sur les écoles de pensée en archéologie historique est aussi inclu. Ces écrits seront utiles aux chercheurs qui voudront se familiariser avec les différentes approches dans cette discipline. En plus, des rapports de fouilles et des résumés de recherche pour le Canada sont compris dans le présent volume. Pour les Maritimes, le lecteur pourra consulter «An Archaeological Bibliography of the Maritime Provinces: Works to 1984» par Christopher J. Turnbull et Stephen A. Davis (The Council of Maritime Premiers, Reports in Archaeology No. 6), qui sera publié en 1986. Cette bibliographie sera un supplément essentiel au présent ouvrage.

Un nombre très limité d'articles et de livres sur l'histoire de l'Acadie et la Nouvelle-France, ainsi que l'histoire sociale et économique, est compris dans la présente bibliographie. Enfin, on retrouvera aussi un nombre de titres sur la formation des sociétés complexes.

Une bibliographie comme celle qui suit devient de plus en plus nécessaire, et j'espère que cette publication pourra remplir la lacune qui existe déjà plusieurs années. Cependant, il me faut rappeler que cette bibliographie n'est pas complète, mais elle est constituée de plusieurs titres essentiels pour la recherche dans les Maritimes.
